

The World at Your Fingertips

TOUCHSCREEN CATALOG

Dear Friend of Missions,

More than three years ago I shared a simple idea with the World Missions Committee, that we create a touch screen display for our local A/G churches that would enable our faithful missions supporters throughout the Fellowship to “have the world at their fingertips.” I envisioned children and young people touching a computer screen and traveling around the world to meet our missionaries as well as to learn what God is doing in more than 167 countries in which our missionaries live and work.

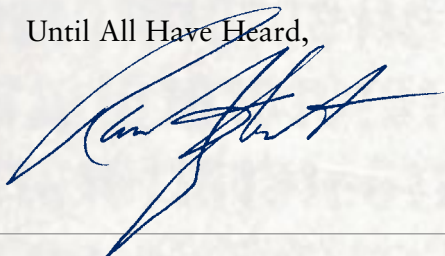

In April of 1999, my long-term friend Larry Hall whose parents served for 44 years overseas as missionaries to the Chinese joined our communications team and under his leadership, the touch screen has become a reality. With the capable assistance of Tonny Wolfe, Lobo Web Design, the huge task of complex programming the touch screen evolved slowly but continually took shape.

We’re pleased and excited to offer the Missions World Touchscreen Kiosk to our Fellowship. This catalog will show you screen by screen how the system works as well as acquaint you with the information that will help you get your touch screen kiosk up and running to put the world at your congregation’s fingertips.

We believe so strongly that this system will stir interest in worldwide missions that we are offering this software and a wealth of information with it, to churches in our Fellowship for only a minimal subscription. Prices for computer equipment have dropped to the point that it is feasible even for small churches to install the system. This catalog will give you names of vendors of enclosures and the necessary computer equipment. Those vendors will retail the equipment and provide software technical support independently of the Assemblies of God World Missions. You are free to shop anywhere for the best price. AGWM will not participate in the purchase or technical support for your equipment.

The tremendous coordination effort required to keep this information current constrains the focus of this system to foreign missionaries serving with the Assemblies of God. Also, the sensitivity of some areas of the world where dedicated missionaries daily place their lives at risk, restricts us from including some missionaries’ names and photos.

Simplicity

An attractive display for the Missions World Touchscreen computer can be designed by the local church without using an enclosure, by integrating a computer, touchscreen monitor, printer and speakers into an existing missions display area.

Do-It-Yourself

A church privileged to have skilled craftsmen in its congregation may choose to build, rather than purchase, a kiosk enclosure. This may be more economical and the local builder may be able to match the decor of the church lobby.

These plans have been drawn to assist with that choice. The screen is positioned at an angle and a height that accommodates children, adults, and the disabled. This design gives easy access to the specified equipment to authorized staff. Optional wheels provide some maneuverability.

Free plans are included in the kiosk information kit. The cost of the materials is an estimate only and will vary depending on the choice of wood and the finish.

Dimensions:

28" W x 54" H x 24" D

Estimated Materials $277

Plans are included in the World Missions Touchscreen information kit.

Kiosk Vendors

AGWM Media neither sells nor recommends the kiosks on this page. This information is supplied only to show the kinds of kiosks available on the market. They are generally significantly more costly than building them yourself or having them built by a cabinet maker. Kiosk enclosures are not required for touchscreens.
